“Participation,” said Pete Seeger. “That’s what is going to save the human race.” From its founding in 1957, Old Town School of Folk Music has pursued direct, active personal participation in the arts and in our community. In the process, we’ve changed thousands of people’s lives, we’ve changed the face of our neighborhoods, and we’ve changed from a small scrappy organization into a very large scrappy organization. 2017 was a celebration of sixty years of making music and standing up for the values of excellence, inclusion and participation that have always characterized our School. The institutional adventure that has carried us through those decades is reflected every day in our classes and concerts, our programs in CPS schools and the Cook County Juvenile Detention Center, and in our growing presence all over Chicago – from Wrigley Field and Navy Pier to our Music Moves: Arts & Community Wellness initiative in Englewood. All of it is about engaging a community in cultural practice – that participation that Pete talked about. It is what we do.

None of this would be a reality without the generous support of our donors, the dedication of our exceptional teaching artists and administrative staff, a strong board of directors, and a community of learners and music aficionados who are central to all that we are able to accomplish. Your support is, as always, deeply appreciated.

ORGANIZATIONAL SNAPSHOT

Old Town School of Folk Music adheres to the following values:

Teaching and Learning in folk tradition
Folk is a way: a way of living, creating and being that universally connects communities. We value education and performance in this face-to-face, participatory method passed down through the generations.

Community
The Old Town School strives to create a community that consciously fosters a sense of belonging and freedom as it celebrates hand-made culture in welcoming, spontaneous and collaborative spaces.

Inclusiveness and Diversity
Old Town School is committed to diversity in the full range of its many meanings, thriving on differences.

Service and Citizenship
Through its programs and in all of its interactions, Old Town School models responsible and progressive institutional engagement with contemporary social concerns.

Celebrating its 60th year of service to Chicago in 2017, Old Town School of Folk Music is the largest community school of the arts in the nation. Founded in 1957, the School has had expansions in 1968, when it moved from North Avenue to Armitage in Lincoln Park, in 1998, when it took over the old Hild Library in Lincoln Square, and in 2012, when the School opened a new $17M state-of-the-art facility across the street. With three facilities in Lincoln Square and Lincoln Park, the Old Town School’s reach ranges from infants in our trademarked Wiggleworms early-childhood music programs to adolescents and adults building their creative lives through music and dance. We also serve infants and toddlers in Lawndale, children grades 3-8 in a variety of Chicago Public Schools, incarcerated teens at the Cook County Juvenile Temporary Detention Center, and adolescents and young adults in the south side Englewood neighborhood. Our 300+ annual concert and event schedule entertains and enlightens over 100,000, and highlights the talents of big name acts and master musicians from more than 50 countries, with many events produced in partnership with a wide diversity of other community groups. As the economic engine of its neighborhoods, and the largest employer of the 47th Ward, Old Town School of Folk Music routinely proves that the term “folk music” includes a whole world of cultural expression – one that lives right here in Chicago.

Guitars for Growth

Our Guitars For Growth program provides music instruction in electric guitar and bass to 450 incarcerated youth at the Cook County Juvenile Temporary Detention Center. This program seeks to empower students by cultivating musical literacy, historical and creative understanding, and emotional awareness and stewardship.

Artist Engagement Services

Artist Engagement Services provided performing and teaching artists for more than 600 concerts, classes and workshops at both public and private events. Highlights include our participation in:

- Wiggleworms in Millennium Park’s Family Fun Tent, at Gallagher Way (the park outside Wrigley Field) and at Navy Pier’s new Polk Bros. Park City Stage space all summer long via partnerships with those organizations
- Ongoing fee-for-service partnerships with Montessori Gifted Prep and North Shore Congregation Israel
- Chicago Park District’s Toddlers, Tunes, & Turtles events at parks citywide
- Concerts in the Park at the Welles Park Gazebo and Polar Adventure Days on Northerly Island
- Lincoln Park Zoo’s Music on the Patio concert series
- Northbrook Public Library’s Family Concert Series
- Assemblies at Ferst, a therapeutic day school, supporting students aged 7- to 21-years with diagnoses ranging from autism and intellectual disabilities to physical challenges and emotional disorders.
- Partnership with Erikson Institute, providing professional development workshops for early childhood educators from China
- Family music experiences for young parents and children via the Infant Welfare Society, Lutheran Social Services and other social service organizations
- Merchandise Mart’s One of a Kind Show (Spring and Holiday editions)
- Specialized concert experiences for children and families at Chicago Botanic Garden geared toward those with special needs and sensitivities, featuring teaching artists from our Exceptional Wiggleworms program
- Music and Memories, a program of the Jewish United Fund, which brings together families with young children and the elderly for singing and sharing
- Weddings, birthdays, memorial services, marriage proposals and other private events, where we have the honor of sharing in the milestone moments of many Chicago families!

Bringing Music to Local Children’s Hospitals

Through generous funding and external partnerships, Old Town School of Folk Music is able to provide musical experiences for children and their families at each of these Chicagoland locations:

- University of Chicago Medicine Comer Children’s Hospital
- Shriners Hospital for Children
- Rush Children’s Hospital
- Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children’s Hospital of Chicago

Our talented teaching artists visit these hospitals approximately 50 times a year, where they play music, sing, and engage children and their families in the restorative power of music. Via this program, Old Town School is honored to provide more than 1,000 people per year with an opportunity that they may not otherwise experience.

Other School Partnerships

In collaboration with Carnegie Hall, Old Town School facilitated the Lullaby Project with students from Simpson Academy for Young Women, a Chicago Public School serving pregnant and parenting students from 6th through 12th grades. Young mothers worked with professional songwriters to create original lullabies for their babies. This powerful program culminated in a performance on the Old Town School’s stage, with full band accompaniment and recording.

Old Town School has a long-term partnership with Chicago House, providing out-of-school-time music and enrichment experiences to more than 40 children impacted by HIV/AIDS.

Old Town School continues long-term partnerships designed to serve children with special needs at Rush Day School at Rush University Hospital, Anixter Center’s Stuart G. Ferst School, and North Shore Academy Elementary through the North Shore Special Education District.

In fall 2017, Old Town School began working with Albright Middle School in Villa Park, IL with a Folk Orchestra program. By learning folk and traditional techniques and tunes, sixty 5th-8th grade orchestra students learned how to play by ear and understand song structures that enable them to be life-long musicians. They also learned about the importance of community, and how each individual’s role in the ensemble is vital to group success. The model of folk music provides a model for everyday living.

ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

In 2017, more than 4,000 children participated in Artist-in-Residence and Wiggleworms-in-Residence Programs in 19 different Chicago Public Schools and at the Carole Robertson Center for Learning. Additionally, over 8,000 children attended our field trip events at Old Town School. These programs support young people in their growth as creative artists and increase their skills as musicians, dancers, songwriters, and more. Integrating Social-Emotional Learning encourages each student’s development in self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills, and responsible decision-making.

Teacher Testimonials

“When I asked students to communicate their experience with the program, they shared how Nook made them feel and the level of comfort he provided to students to make them feel confident in learning new skills. He taught them more than just music. He taught them to be confident and accepting of their individuality.”

“Students developed an increased love for music, especially vocal. This program is encouraging all students to believe they are singers. Thank you!”

“My students moved from a free-for-all type attitude to one of musical purpose during our sessions with Jason.”

“The teaching artist’s greatest success was connecting with the students and building their confidence in themselves through musical expression.”

Demographic averages for our community partners are as follows:

- 83.5% identify as students of color
- 76.5% are designated low-income
- 16.8% are diverse learners (highest 45.8%)
- 33.3% are English learners (highest 68.2%)

Among these schools, our partnerships range from 2 to 20+ years, with an average duration of 7.8 years.

28 teaching artists are active within the partnerships. 13 of these identify as people of color.
SUMMER CAMPS

In 2017, 203 children from around Chicago attended our various summer camps, including two three-week sessions of Arts Camp for 4-to-6 year olds, two four-week sessions of Arts Camp for 7-to-11 years olds, a one-week intensive Fiddle Camp, and Teen Arts Camp, presented as three two-week intensives.
ENGAGEMENT

Old Town School of Folk Music believes that all of Chicago’s neighborhoods deserve the many benefits that result from robust arts, education, and economic drivers. Our Englewood-based Arts & Community Wellness Initiative, Music Moves, convenes key stakeholders in that south-side neighborhood to develop a trauma-informed pedagogy that addresses social change, violence reduction, community development, and youth leadership through the arts.

Music Moves provided classes in four disciplines at six locations during 2017. Hip-Hop classes began in the spring with 15 students at IGrow Chicago. By summer of 2017, the existing programming expanded to serve 200 students, including African-Drumming at Hamilton Park, Poetry and Songwriting at Imagine Englewood If, and Electronic Music at Ogden Park. In the fall of 2017, a Poetry and Songwriting session served 75 students at Teen Living Programs.

Music Moves’ students were involved in two final performance/community celebrations at IGrow Chicago and another final performance and dinner at Teen Living Programs. Additionally, an album was created by the Ogden Park electronic music students.

Soundtrack of the City was a free, city-wide summer concert series. Performances, special exhibits and discussion panels were hosted throughout Chicago’s many neighborhoods from Bronzeville to River North, celebrating Chicago’s rich musical history and exploring its connection to social movements and cultural traditions that defined world-changing musical genres ranging from jazz to Duranguense.

Soundtrack of the City was made possible through a grant from the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events’ IncentOvate Program.

In addition to a one-of-a-kind concert, attendees enjoyed a roaming feast throughout Lincoln Square, visiting some of our favorite neighborhood restaurants. Over $450,000 was raised to support Old Town School of Folk Music’s school partnerships, financial aid, and education programs.
The 2017 Legends Dinner honored 60 years of Old Town School of Folk Music’s contributions to music education in Chicago and our role as a national model for community arts learning. Nearly $200,000 was raised to support the Schools’ education programs, tuition aid for low-income students and innovative community youth initiatives.
The Distinguished Teaching Artist Awards were established in 2014 to honor exemplary Old Town School teaching artists. Nominated by their peers, recipients are selected based upon their excellence as a teaching artist, distinction as leaders among their fellow teachers, and their contributions to the community culture of the Old Town School of Folk Music.
